AUTHOR & COACH

Cornelia Brown is a high energy inspirational speaker, trainer, entrepreneur, author, and coach. Conny (as she is affectionately called by all who know her) is full of life. Her lively, enthusiastic nature is contagious and draws people of all ages to her. It is also one of the secrets to the phenomenal success she has in leading others through the process of transforming their lives and to begin walking in their destiny.

Conny also has a strong sense of social justice and unity. This has compelled her to start a ministry, "All Shades and Flavors." She uses this ministry to bring people from all nations together, to foster a sense of unity, and to teach the benefits of entrepreneurship. Conny believes that together we can do so much more than we can divided. Her book, Black and White Makes Brown, also showcases Conny's desire to help improve upon race relations. She is a strong advocate for multi-cultural families and unity in the workplace.

Conny is the founder of the Red Rose Conquerors, a group that teaches entrepreneurship and leadership. This group is made up of over 300 individuals throughout the United States who have determined that they will be the change they desire to see in the world. Under Conny's leadership, the Red Rose Conquerors help mentor and coach other aspiring entrepreneurs to go after their dreams and to leave their mark on this world. Conny urges everyone to love each other and to always choose joy, no matter what the storms of life bring.

A native of Bavaria Germany, Conny came to the United States with her husband, Bernard whom she met when he was stationed in Germany. Together, they have two children, and three grandchildren. Conny and her husband are ordained elders at the Church of the Harvest International in Jonesboro, Georgia.
